

APPLICATION FORM

The Youth Entrepreneurial Development Training Program is delivered by the Black Business and Professional Association (BBPA) at their Centre of Excellence located at 180 Elm Street.

The Youth Entrepreneurial Development Training Program promotes creative and innovative skills development, connects potential youth entrepreneurs to industry experts and mentors, and helps youth to develop their entrepreneurial idea into a feasible start-up business. Toronto Community Housing residents are eligible to take part in this program if they are interested in creative and performing arts or culinary arts training. To be eligible for a start-up business grant from Toronto Community Housing, participants must complete the program and meet specific eligibility criteria.

You and/or your parent (if under the age of 18) are required to complete this form to enroll in the Youth Entrepreneurial Development Training Program.

The information in this form will be shared between Toronto Community Housing and BBPA to determine your eligibility for The Youth Entrepreneurial Development Training Program. By completing this form you are consenting to Toronto Community Housing collecting and using your personal information for the above mentioned reason.
